

Ceanothus griseus 'Yankee Point'

Yankee Point Ceanothus

Spreading shrub

Sun to part shade

Moderate water

Origin: California

Yankee Point is a California native hybrid. It is a ground cover shrub that grows quickly 2 feet high and 8 wide. Foliage is a lush glossy green. In spring the plant is covered with light blue flower clusters. It is an excellent choice for slopes. It will not have good form if restricted to less than 8'. Provide regular watering for young plants and those in hot inland areas. Trim lightly.

Ceanothus have a reputation for being short lived. This is usually due to poor soil drainage or frequent summer watering. Best to let it dry out before watering. Prune Ceanothus only lightly after flowering. Pruning at other times may remove the next seasons flowers.
